Great for Emergencies

San Cura Ointment Should Be in Every Home

There never was known a more reliable ointment than San Cura. In most every case where it has been used it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitchcock, of Centerville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

It has great healing and antiseptic value. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by Ed. D. Heckerman to relieve any kind of piles, eczema, tetter, salt rheuma, boils carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains and chapped hands, or money back.

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies for bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it relieves the pain and is antiseptic and healing. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand. 30c, 60c and $1.20 a jar at Ed. D. Heckerman's.

BEST SKIN SOAP

Is San Cura Soap, because of its great antiseptic and healing virtues. Use it regularly, and it will make the skin soft and velvety; will remove pimples and blackheads. It's the real soap for babies' tender skin, which mothers of infants should remember. 25 cents a cake at Ed. D. Heckerman's.

"WHY WOMEN CANNOT SLEEP."

The highly organized, finely strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate.

The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which are necessary for happy womanhood, are only possible when the sensitive organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" discovered by Dr. Pierce, who early practiced medicine in Pennsylvania.

BEAVER SPRINGS, PA.—"I had been sick for several years with blind, dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, pains in back of head, and at times weak, tired feeling and nervous spells. I tried several doctors but they failed to do me any good. As soon as I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I began to get better—could sleep nights and that bad, nervous feeling left. I took in all three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription.'"—MRS. FRANK WAGNER.

Save Coal

Uncle Sam needs it for war purposes. Every ton you save this summer can be used to heat your home next winter. Save it.

One way is to use an oil cook stove instead of the coal range. That won't be a hardship, but a big advantage. That is if you buy the right oil cook stove.

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK-STOVES

are now giving satisfactory service in millions of American homes. A New Perfection will give you this same satisfactory service—a really better service (especially in hot weather) than your coal range ever has or ever will. You don't have coal or wood to carry—no dusty ashes to fly all over. And a New Perfection does not make the kitchen almost unbearably hot like a range does. But it will boil and fry and bake things just as you like them. It's always ready at the scratch of a match. You'll be delighted with the splendid results.

Besides, it burns a most economical fuel—kerosene. But the kind of kerosene you use makes a big difference. All kerosenes are not alike in quality. To be sure of always getting best results use Atlantic Rayolight Oil. Buy it at the store that displays this sign "Atlantic Rayolight Oil For Sale Here." It costs no more than ordinary kinds but it's worth more. Go to your nearest dealer now and select your New Perfection Oil Cook Stove.

Are the Packers Profiteers?

Plain Facts About the Meat Business

The Federal Trade Commission in its recent report on war profits, stated that the five large meat packers have been profiteering and that they have a monopoly of the market.

These conclusions, if fair and just, are matters of serious concern not only to those engaged in the meat packing business but to every other citizen of our country.

The figures given on profits are misleading and the statement that the packers have a monopoly is unsupported by the facts.

The packers mentioned in the report stand ready to prove their profits reasonable and necessary.

* * * *

The meat business is one of the largest American industries. Any citizen who would familiarize himself with its details must be prepared for large totals.

The report states that the aggregate profits of four large packers were $140,000,000 for the three war years.

This sum is compared with $19,000,000 as the average annual profit for the three years before the war, making it appear that the war profit was $121,000,000 greater than the pre-war profit. This compares a three-year profit with a one-year profit—a manifestly unfair method of comparison. It is not only misleading, but the Federal Trade Commission apparently has made a mistake in the figures themselves.

* * * *

The aggregate three-year profit of $140,000,000 was earned on sales of over four and a half billion dollars. It means about three cents on each dollar of sales—or a mere fraction of a cent per pound of product.

Packers' profits are a negligible factor in prices of live stock and meats. No other large business is conducted upon such small margins of profit.

* * * *

Furthermore—and this is very important—only a small portion of this profit has been paid in dividends. The balance has been put back into the business. It had to be, as you realize when you consider the problems the packers have had to solve—and solve quickly—during these war years.

To conduct this business in war times, with higher costs and the necessity of paying two or three times the former prices for live stock, has required the use of two or three times the ordinary amount of working capital. The additional profit makes only a fair return on this, and as has been stated, the large portion of the profit earned has been used to finance huge stocks of goods and to provide additions and improvements made necessary by the enormous demands of our army and navy and the Allies.

* * * *

If you are a business man you will appreciate the significance of these facts. If you are unacquainted with business, talk this matter over with some business acquaintance—with your banker, say—and ask him to compare profits of the packing industry with those of any other large industry at the present time.

* * * *

No evidence is offered by the Federal Trade Commission in support of the statement that the large packers have a monopoly. The Commission's own report shows the large number and importance of other packers.

The packers mentioned in the statement stand ready to prove to any fair minded person that they are in keen competition with each other, and that they have no power to manipulate prices.

If this were not true they would not dare to make this positive statement.

Furthermore, government figures show that the five large packers mentioned in the report account for only about one-third of the meat business of the country.

They wish it were possible to interest you in the details of their business. Of how, for instance, they can sell dressed beef for less than the cost of the live animal, owing to utilization of by-products, and of the wonderful story of the methods of distribution throughout this broad land, as well as in other countries.

The five packers mentioned feel justified in co-operating with each other to the extent of together presenting this public statement.

They have been able to do a big job for your government in its time of need; they have met all war time demands promptly and completely and they are willing to trust their case to the fairmindedness of the American people with the facts before them.

"Empties" Plentiful at Mines.

Since the government has taken over control of railroads some marvelous changes have been made in the transportation of war necessities and few complaints are heard nowadays from coal operators about the scarcity of cars. For a long time it was the practice to lay all the blame for fuel shortage at the door of the railroad operators, but Railroad Director General McAdoo "passed the buck" to the coal operators and there has been no scarcity of "empties," during the past week or two.

EXTRACTS FROM SPEECHES of President Wilson

"There is, therefore, but one response possible from us: Force. Force to the utmost, Force without stint or limit, the righteous and triumphant Force which shall make Right the Law of the world, and cast every selfish dominion down in the dust."

(Address at Baltimore, April 6, 1917.)

"Our present and immediate task is to win the war, and nothing shall turn us aside from it until it is accomplished."

(Fifth Annual Message to Congress, Dec. 4, 1917.)

"All French territory should be freed and the invaded portions restored, and the wrong done to France by Prussia in 1871 in the matter of Alsace-Lorraine, which has unsettled the peace of the world for nearly fifty years, should be righted, in order that peace may once more be made secure in the interest of all."

((Address at Washington, January 8, 1918, to Congress.))

"And we are not to be diverted from the grim purpose of winning the war by any insincere approaches upon the subject of peace. I can say with a clear conscience that I have tested those intimations, and have found them insincere. I now recognize them for what they are, an opportunity to have a free hand, particularly in the East, to carry out the purposes of Conquest and exploitation. Every proposal with regard to accommodation in the West involves a reservation with regard to the East. Now, so far as I am concerned, I intend to stand by Russia as well as by France."

(Address at New York City, May 19, 1918, Metropolitan Opera House)

"There can be but one issue. The settlement must be final. There can be no compromise. These great objects can be put into a single sentence. What we seek is the reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind."

FRENCH NATIONAL HOLIDAY

The National Committee on Allied Tribute to France, proposes to make July 14th, the French National Holiday, the occasion of a tribute to France by the people of the United States and its allies, and to voice their determination to support France until Peace shall have been achieved by Victory.

It is suggested that due publicity be given that the Clergy address their congregations on the subject, and that the Marseillaise be played and sung in the Churches and wherever possible, that extracts from the speeches of President Lincoln and President Wilson appropriate to the occasion be read, and that the flag of France particularly, and of all our Allies if possible, be displayed on that day.

LINCOLN QUOTATION 1864-1918.

And the war will end when that object is attained.

Abraham Lincoln, June 16, 1864

WANTS WILSON UNANIMOUSLY RE-ELECTED IF WAR CONTINUES

William Potter, Republican, Says G. O. P. Should Indorse President for Third Term.

William Potter, Federal Fuel Administrator for Pennsylvania, former Minister to Italy and prominent national Republican, issued a statement last night in which he said the Republicans should indorse the Democratic nominee for President in 1920 should the war last that long. Mr. Potter assumes that, if the war continues, President Wilson will have to remain in power for a third term, and should do so by consent of both parties. His statement said:

"There is one thing sure, that as long as this war continues to be so successfully fought by the allies in general, and the American soldiers in particular, the American voter, reflecting the views of our boys in the trenches, will not stand for any political opposition, or political capital, while the war is being so successfully waged."

"One does not have to be a seer to realize that if the war is not finished by the next national election, it may be the part of wisdom for the Republican party to nominate on its ticket the nominee of the Democratic party for President, and to keep alive its political organization by a contest confined to the single office of Vice President."

"Lincoln said it was not wise to swap horses while crossing a stream, and the American people are behind President Wilson and want him to stay in the White House until victory is won for the forces of civilization and humanity."

Farmer Had Forgotten That Time Was Robbing Him and His Wife of Youth While He Was Piling Up the Dollars.

The farmer sat in the circle of light shed by the lamp on the reading table. His brow was wrinkled as he ran over the figures in his bankbook with a stubby lead pencil. While he figured, his wife sewed steadily and the old clock on the mantel counted the seconds under its breath.

At length the man placed his spectacles in their case, put his clasped hands above one knee, smiled slowly and said: "The last payment on the Dawkins farm has been paid, Jinny, an' I've got a right smart balance left in the bank. That last bunch of shoats I sold brought more money than I thought they would."

For a time he sat evidently waiting for his wife to make some remark, but her needle clicked steadily along a hem, while her eyes appeared glued to her work. The farmer leaned forward, touched his wife upon her knee and continued: "Don't you remember, Jinny, ever so long ago, I told you that just as soon as the Dawkins place was paid for you an' I would take a trip, a great big trip, anywhere you wanted to go?"

"Yes," the woman answered without taking her eyes from the hem, "yes, I remember very well. It was just 15 years ago that you said we'd take that trip, John."

"Well—but—say, Jinny, ain't you a bit glad it's come at last?" the man asked.

"I don't know, I don't know. You see, John, when we planned that trip I was just a little bit over thirty. I hadn't got into the rut like I am now. Honest, I've stayed out here in the country year after year by myself until I'm sensitive. When I go to town I look an' act like I was from the country. Maybe I don't look that way, but I feel that way on the inside an' I might just as well look that way. If the trip had come sooner it'd been all right, but it's too late now."

"But, Jinny, you know I was payin'—"

"Never mind that, John, I've heard that same ol' story of payin' for more land for years now. You've done it all for the best, but it has been for the worst. We've got money to spend an' we've gotten plumb by the time of life when we can get any pleasure out of it. I believe in puttin' something by for a rainy day all right, but I don't believe in it when you kill youth an' pleasure. I'm sorry as I can be, John, but I don't want the trip."

American Sardines.

Our imports of sardines from France and other European countries have been almost entirely cut off by war, but the California sardine industry is developing so rapidly that N. B. Scofield, fish and game commissioner of that state, estimates an output of 2,500,000 cases of California sardines in another year. The California sardine has suffered market handicaps due to lack of standardization of pack. This difficulty is now being overcome by cooperation among the packers, and better methods of handling the fish from the time they are taken out of the water until they go into the can are being developed. Canners representing 90 per cent of the Maine sardine canning industry in co-operation with the food administration have voluntarily agreed to reduce their price to $5.60 a case of 100 cans for the one-fourth size in oil and for the three-fourths size in mustard, and $6.10 a case of 100 key cans in the one-fourth size in oil. This will enable retailers to sell the keyless cans at three for 25 cents, and the grocery trade has lined up behind the Maine canners to distribute both this and last year's pack at those prices.

Common Sense Plus.

The class in Commercial English was studying the parcel post system. The subject being discussed was the size of admissible matter under this class, to be sent in any zone. The correct rule for this is to measure the parcel from end to end with an 84-inch tape measure, and then use the rest of the measure to stretch around the circumference of the parcel. If any surplus inches of tape come around, then the parcel is of correct size.

"Suppose," said the teacher, bringing forth a practical example, "that I were to have an umbrella, Louise, how could I tell whether or not it could be sent?"

Louise arose reluctantly and studied for a moment in silence. At last she answered, "Well, I think I'd close the umbrella first."

MERCHANTS, HOTELS, RESTAURANTS.

All Merchants, Hotels, Restaurants and everybody other than individuals must hand their sugar requisitions to the County Food Administrator, John N. Minnich, Bedford, Pa. by July 15, 12 o'clock midnight, if they wish to obtain sugar for the rest of the year. Don't neglect to send to Mr. Minnich for a form for returning your estimated requirements. Get in and save trouble.

The Helper

By MYRTLE BARRINGER

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

"A bird with a broken wing," observed John Roscoe, banker. "That about expresses it."

It did, indeed, for although the allusion covered a human being, the same Warren Boyd, was one of those fine sterling natures that made one seek for sentiment and delicacy in describing him. He was passing down the street engrossed in sad and serious thoughts, and his bearing was that of a man carrying a heavy burden.

"I like and respect the fellow," the magnate continued, "but he is too deep in for me to help. It's a pity, though, some strong financing power could not come to his aid. His project is sane, worthy, and its execution would be a credit to the town."

Capable, intelligent, not yet thirty, Warren Boyd felt like a knight errant unhorsed at the first round in the tournament of effort and ambition. His powers of vision were strong, his ideals high and all his sympathies along the line of concrete good to humanity. He had owned a full square of ground in Lowden, and had aimed to make it a nucleus for an institution where homeless or abandoned children, wherever found, should find a refuge amidst country air, and vernal surroundings.

Boyd donated the land. He proposed building a forty thousand-dollar structure, comfortable and modern in all of its appointments. He relied on outside donations to operate this asylum, and the promise of these from social settlement and religious centers was encouraging. Finally he found a benevolently inclined man of means who agreed to advance the money needed, accepting as security a bond issue covering site and improvements.

The money was paid into the local bank as needed. The walls of the building began to rise. Then came a terrible blow to the sanguine Boyd. He was dazed when the banker informed him that his philanthropic backer had failed, with less than half the money promised provided.

"Boyd's folly," people called this wreck of a true man's hopes. Boyd sought aid vainly. He left the village one day, almost aimlessly following a secluded road. He had got so that he shunned company, and as he saw a little ahead a man and woman standing under a tree he turned aside. Boyd recognized the lady. She was Mrs. Helen Wayne, who had come to the town a few months ago and had settled down to a secluded life at The Poplars, as if some mystery surrounded her life.

Finally Boyd discerned that the two had separated, the lady pursuing her way in the direction of her home. Boyd resumed his stroll. As he neared the spot where the two had stood he paused to pick up a little package. It was held together by an elastic band and appeared to comprise letters or documents. On the outside was written the name: "Helen Wayne."

"Of course the lady dropped it," reasoned Boyd, and hurried after Mrs. Wayne.

"Madam," he detained her, "I found this packet where you were standing down the road." His courtesy, his fine statuesque face, his respectful manner enlisted the attention of the lady. She smiled her thanks. Then, half opening the packet, a muffled scream escaped her lips.

"Pardon me—I thank you. You have—you have saved me!"

Boyd noted her confusion and agitation in open amazement. Mrs. Wayne fairly reeled as she made her way homeward.

The next day a telephone message summoned Boyd to the bank. Mr. Roscoe greeted him with genial smile and handshake.

"I have great news for you," he announced. "A person, not wishing to be known for the present, called upon me this morning and offered to take up the forty thousand-dollar bonds we hold in escrow, pay back Blake the money he has advanced and finance you for the full completion of your building."

"Oh, it cannot be true!" gasped the bewildered Boyd.

But it was true, and hope, confidence, glowing happiness seemed to fill his being, renewed. Once more, his heart in his work, Warren Boyd started forth a man among men. And then one day the banker told him the name of his mysterious almoner—Mrs. Helen Wayne.

Boyd was not the man to repress his emotion. Once again at her lonely, but lovely home, he infused her with his own fervent idealism as he poured forth his thanks.

The nobility of his nature inspired her to tell him her life history. An unworthy husband had died, leaving her a fortune. Their marriage had been a hasty one and there had appeared a blackmailer, who threatened to dispute the validity of her marriage. He had the proofs of the same that Mrs. Wayne could not secure. It was he who had dropped the packet, and its restoration to his victim had enabled her to defy him.

In the holy hush of a beautiful twilight, one month later, Warren Boyd told his love to this peerless woman.

"You could offer no honor dearer to my weary, famished soul than to ask me to share your noble life work," she said, "and together we will impart the sunlight of care and love to the shadowed lives of the little ones."

What Will Become of the Bartenders?

There are 100,000 bartenders in the United States—at least that's what Uncle Sam tell us.

What will become of these bartenders when all the saloons are closed?

What makes a man a successful bartender? It's the fact that he's a good salesman, a good mixer; he knows how to deal with men, and the man who is a success as a bartender, will be a success as a salesman in almost any other kind of store.

The fact is, it requires many more people to sell two billion dollars worth of bread and clothing, for example, than it does to sell two billion dollars worth of booze.

Furthermore, most bartenders had some other kind of a job before they became bartenders.

A man doesn't become a bartender until he is nearly twenty or more—before that time he worked as a mechanic, or a salesman, or he was engaged in some other occupation to which he may return—provided he hasn't been shot all to pieces on account of the booze business.

Here's a quotation that tells the story:

"The closing of the saloon merely forces the bartender to change from a bad job to a good job—from a job in which he hurts his fellow men, to a job in which he helps his fellow men."

"When a bartender puts a man out of a job, he disgraces the man, disgraces his family, and makes him unfit for another job."

"When No-License puts a bartender out of a job, he becomes a more honorable citizen, his family becomes more honorable, and the community secures a wealth-producing workman, instead of a wealth-destroying workman."

"It is better—far better—that the bartender should lose his job and become fitted for a better one, than that scores of his patrons should lose their jobs and be unfitted for any job."

Keep the Home Fires Burning

The American public is certainly generous in its support of the National Administration, and no price will be too dear for it to pay in order to secure the peace of the whole world. But, let us remember that the success of this war depends upon American resources.

To best conserve these resources we must not disturb conditions in the business world. Rather we must avoid the depressing influences of war and radiate the cheer and spirit of victory by patronizing American industries and our home stores.

Absolute Safety in Home Buying

No sense of feeling is more satisfying than that of safety. And nothing is dearer to the home merchant than the confidence his customers repose in him through a sense of safety in whatever they buy.

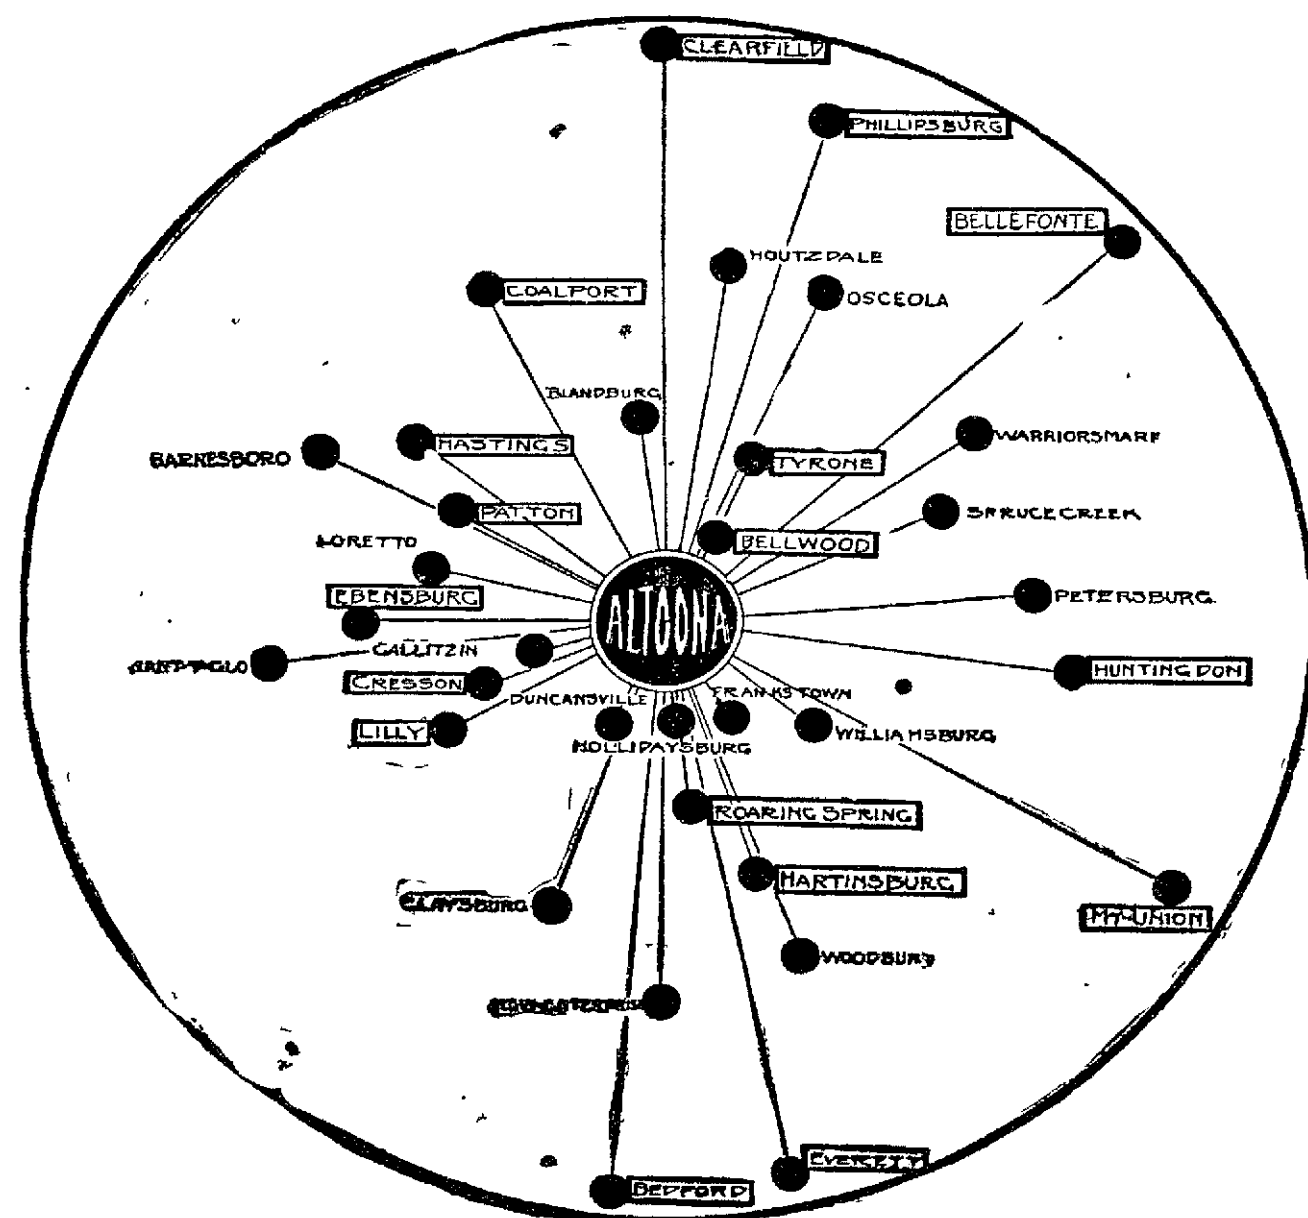

Under the searchlight of careful scrutiny, before your home merchant places goods on sale he tests them carefully to make assurance doubly sure that they are worth the selling price.

Hence, he does not fear critical examination of either his goods or prices and cheerfully invites comparisons. In fact he will urge you to pass judgment on the styles and feel the goods to determine the textures. He is confident of satisfying you, because his confidence lies in the safety of the goods he sells.

Be Patriotic

It is your patriotic duty to buy everything you use or consume in your district. Altoona stores (in the center of your district) are equipped and stocked to supply you with everything you need that is not procurable at your neighborhood store.

The undersigned merchants, members of the Altoona Booster Association are pledged to Truth, Honest Values and Satisfactory Service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR JULY 14

READING GOD'S WORD.

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 19:7-11; Acts 8: 26-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8:32.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FOR TEACHERS—Psalms 37:31; 119:9-16; Proverbs 13:15; Isaiah 55:1-11; John 5:39-46-47; Romans 15:4.

DEVOTIONAL READING—Psalms 119: 9-16, 97-105.

1. Characteristics of God's Word (Ps. 19:7-11).

The Psalmist here sets forth six descriptive titles of God's Word, six outstanding qualities, and six resultant effects.

FIRST GROUP—

1. Title: "The Law of the Lord" (v. 7).

By this is meant the fundamental principles which God as a moral being reveals to the consciences of men as binding upon the soul.

2. Quality: "Perfect" (v. 7).

It is free from omissions and redundancies. It is perfect as a moral code, and it perfectly accomplishes man's salvation.

3. Effect: "Converting the Soul" (v. 7).

The practical effect of the law of God is to turn men to God himself, righteousness and holiness.

SECOND GROUP—

1. Title: "The Testimony of the Lord" (v. 7).

It is the witness which God bears as to his attributes, and against man's sins.

2. Quality: "Sure" (v. 7).

It is plain and infallible. We can repose in it our interests for time and eternity.

3. Effect: "Making Wise the Simple" (v. 7).

The simple are those who have humble, open and teachable minds.

THIRD GROUP—

1. Title: "The Statutes of the Lord" (v. 8).

These are the principles or charges which the Lord gives to us all, to fit us to rightly perform the duties which the different relations of life make obligatory upon us.

2. Quality: "Right" (v. 8).

They are from the righteous God and are absolutely just and equitable.

3. Effect: "Rejoicing the Heart" (v. 8).

The true heart rejoices in justice and equity.

FOURTH GROUP—

1. Title: "The Commandment of the Lord" (v. 8).

This brings into view the personal God who stands back of his law to enforce its demands—to require obedience to its precepts.

2. Quality: "Pure" (v. 8).

It is free from deceit and error.

3. Effect: "Enlightening the Eyes" (v. 8).

The effect of God's law is to give man ability, not only to understand his love and salvation, but to be wise as to the things about him.

FIFTH GROUP—

1. Title: "The Fear of the Lord" (v. 9).

Reading the Word of God produces reverential fear in the heart of the reader.

2. Quality: "Clean" (v. 9).

It is not only clean in itself, but sanctifies the heart of those who receive it.

3. Effect: "Enduring Forever" (v. 9).

The life and relationship founded upon his law abide forever.

SIXTH GROUP—

1. Title: "The Judgments of the Lord" (v. 9).

By this is meant the sentences pronounced by God's Word.

2. Quality: "True and Righteous" (v. 9).

The penalties prescribed by God are true, conformable to the intuitive moral sense of man.

3. Effect: "Serve as Warnings and Bring Reward" (v. 11).

If the warnings be heeded, shipwrecks upon life's sea will be prevented. Besides God pays a wage for obedience to his laws. Godliness is profitable unto all, having the promise of the life that now is, and that which is to come.

11. A Notable Example of Bible Study (Acts 8:26-39).

1. Who It Was (v. 27).

The Ethiopian eunuch, a man of great authority. He was the secretary of the treasury of the Ethiopian queen. The wisest and best men and women of the earth have been reverent students of the Bible and have testified to its beauty and power.

2. The Circumstances of (v. 28).

It was while traveling that this great man was studying the Bible. This is a most excellent way to improve moments while on a journey.

3. Doing Personal Work (vv. 29-37).

Philip was taken from his great evangelistic work in Samaria and directed to go to the desert. The Spirit directed Philip to join himself to the chariot in which the Ethiopian was traveling. Philip ran in obedience to the Spirit's command. One should be alert for the Spirit's direction as for the individual with whom to do personal work. The eunuch was inquiring after the way of life. But still he needed the help of a Spirit-taught man.

PIPELESS CALORIC FURNACE

A Practical, Efficient Method of Heating Without Pipes Through Only One Register

What It Does

The CALORIC, the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace, heats your entire home, new or old, three rooms to eighteen, through one register.

The CALORIC heats uniformly and thoroughly. Whether your house be of the bungalow type, with all rooms on one floor, or two or three stories high—all the rooms will be warm and comfortable.

The CALORIC saves from one-third to one-half of your fuel. The same amount of coal, coke or wood which will heat two or three rooms with stoves, will heat the entire house through the CALORIC. Or, if you are now heating your entire house, the CALORIC will do the same work better with one-half to two-thirds as much fuel.

The CALORIC is easily and quickly installed in any house, new or old, and without interfering with your present heating system. Where there is no cellar, a pit can be dug large enough to hold the furnace and the fuel supply.

The CALORIC reduces fire risk, as all the heat comes up through the center of the register, while the cool air is constantly passing down through the outer part of the register, where it comes in contact with the floor.

Over fifty thousand enthusiastic owners from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, testify that the CALORIC is and does all and more than we claim. The CALORIC is also giving splendid results in stores, factories, churches and halls. Can you afford not to investigate?

H. F. GUMP AND SONS, Everett, Pa.

- and How It Does It

The CALORIC is not a pipe furnace with the pipes left off, and neither is it an experiment hastily put together for the purpose of meeting a demand. It is specially designed and built from the ground up to heat buildings more uniformly, economically and satisfactorily than they have ever been heated by other systems.

The CALORIC works through Nature's own laws of circulation by the movement of air currents. Warm air rises naturally. Cold air falls. Warm air and cold air cannot occupy the same space at the same time, any more than cold water and warm water can do so.

In the same volume that the warm air is distributed into the house, an equal amount of cold air is drawn into the furnace, where it is heated, moistened by the vapor from the two gallon water pan, and then recirculated through the register. This process continues as long as the fire is kept burning.

Thus there is created a constant circulation of properly moistened warm air. Just as running water purifies itself, so this circulating warm air, passing constantly through heat of from three hundred to eight hundred degrees, in which no germ can live, is kept pure and healthful.

Now this is merely an outline of the principles of operation of the CALORIC. A full description is given in an interesting and instructive manner in our CALORIC Catalog. Call at our store, phone or write us for a copy.

The CALORIC is manufactured and guaranteed by The Monitor Stove Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, makers of heating appliances for 99 years.

Facts About Infantile Paralysis

A Paralysis of unknown origin was common in Asia and attracted the attention of European observers prior to the eighteenth century, according to Dr. Louis C. Ager, in a paper read before the American Medical Association.

Infantile paralysis appeared in England between 1784 and 1799, but did not spread to the continent until fifteen or twenty years later. The disease prevailed to some extent among English children in India prior to 1800, if not before, and its victims returned to England at least as early as that date. It seems that infantile paralysis existed in India and Asia originally and was brought to England by Anglo-Indians and then transmitted to the rest of the western world.

The method of transmission of infantile paralysis remains obscure in some points. Direct human transmission is not likely according to a paper read by Dr. M. W. Richardson before the Association of American Physicians. Cases often occurred in the same house, but in different families while a block adjacent to an infected block was frequently not touched. Nothing but the flea or rat could effect such a condition.

The rat suffers from infantile paralysis; during outbreaks rats have been seen with paralyzed legs, hardly able to move, and children who have played with dead rats have been found to contract the disease within a short time. Rats follow the grain traffic, and in a large number of rural epidemics infections were found to start "at the mill". Water fronts infested with rats were common centers of infections.

Both the flea and the rat are carriers of the bubonic plague; a great prevalence of both flea and rat coincided with outbreaks of the plague. Since 1894 the plague has spread all over the world; infantile paralysis spread at about the same time. The flea curve is found to coincide with the paralysis curve, and the paralysis is most apt to attack the lower limbs, which would be the ones apt to be bitten by fleas. There seems to be some connection between rats, fleas and infantile paralysis.

Incidentally, there was a disease of rabbits which carried off large numbers of rabbits every six or seven years, and this was found coincident with infantile paralysis years.

Wait Until the "Number" Answers or the Operator Reports

ONE of the things that causes telephone congestion is the practice of abandoning calls.

Very often a subscriber will call a number and if he doesn't get an almost instantaneous connection will hang up and try again later. He feels that minutes have elapsed while, in reality, it has been but a matter of seconds.

This hanging up of your telephone receiver means that your time, and the time and labor of the operator, has been wasted and the whole operation repeated later; then again if the called party comes on the line the operator must answer: "Party's gone" or "Excuse it, please."

Please remain at your telephone until the called subscriber answers or the operator reports. This will mean a saving in the time and effort of the three parties to the call, and involve less use of the lines and equipment at a time when the Telephone Company is striving to avoid unnecessary service congestion, when all its facilities are directed to the task of meeting the increasing general needs of the country.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Ills of Bedford People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so many weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease. When the kidneys fail there is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. Bedford testimony is proof of their effectiveness.

Miss Susie Fletcher, 112 W. Penn St., says: "I suffered from severe case of kidney complaint. I had heavy, dull aches in my back and side, so I was unable to bend over or lift anything. These troubles bothered me more severely when I caught a cold. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Dull's Drug Store, and soon got relief."

Preserves, Jams and Jellies Will Help Win the War

SAVE THE SURPLUS FRUIT

The housewife who puts up plenty of preserves, jellies and jams this year is doing a great deal more than her "bit" for she helps to release great quantities of needed foodstuffs for our Allies "over there."

Preserving is by no means the uncertain task it used to be. With the modern knowledge of sterilization and with the advent of the pure, refined Parowax, there is no longer the loss by spoiling that housewives used to dread.

Cleaning glasses and jars thoroughly is mighty important, but it is even more vital to be sure that the preserve jars are sealed—especially if you are using the "cold pack" method of preserving—and the jellies are completely covered with Parowax. In the first place, Parowax is pure, highly refined, clean and sanitary. Then, Parowax is economical. Your grocer sells and recommends Parowax. If he has none in stock, he will gladly get it for you.

How France Has Been Fed

"Before the war, a distinguished French Officer, General Maitrot, wrote a series of articles in the 'Echo de Paris' to warn France, that in case of war, the French meat industry would be unable to supply the French army in the field with fresh meat,—owing especially to the lack of modern refrigerating plants and of refrigerating transportation,—and too, owing to the deficiency in the national herd."

"Since the war began the French army has never been short of fresh meat, thanks mainly to the prosperous condition of the American meat industry, and too, to the American live stock breeders."

The foregoing statement was made by a representative of the Allies now in the United States.

Another representative of the Allies said recently:

"that the American packers have been of the greatest possible assistance to the Allies and have, by their efficient co-operation, contributed in the utmost degree to the successful prosecution of the war."

Snyder's Travelette

Gazette but changed her mind and fixed me up a nice bouquet. I drove then to Ira Imes who was full up and from there to Wilmer Conlons, another of the skinny kind of men. The reason he is so skinny is because it takes so much skin to cover his body all over. Mrs. Harry Barney was sitting on the porch reading the Everett Press but she has a better paper to read now. Ezra Conlon crawled down in the well when he heard my buggy creak for fear the Kaiser was coming. I drove up to Robert Barkman's new ranch and found nobody home. It took a seat in the big arm chair and waited till they came. After a good nap, I fed the pigs and chickens, fed my horse and settled down again for the night. Robert has been married twice; the first to Bertha Morse of Piney Creek, and the second time to Si Robinette and he has Ben Koontz engaged. Leaving here I left for the Weicht settlement.

I inspected George's food which registered 98 and lit out for Bedford. Maud S. landed me there at the rate of 8 miles per hour. I had fattened up so that some thought I was Bart Jay but I wasn't.
